DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 73-89 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection as set forth supra.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1, 73-78, 80-89 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent 5,712,163 to Parenteau et al.

A serum-free medium (see col. 7, line 1) is disclosed for culture of epithelial cells (see the title) that comprises a fibroblast growth factor (see col. 8, lines 35-40 thus also meeting limitations of claims 75-76) and a camp elevating agent defined as forskolin, isoproterenol or theophylline (see col. 8, lines 65-67 and col. 9, lines 1-2). The medium may include ascorbic acid and may be a 1X medium (see col. 12, line 28 and col. 13, line 19 for Medium 199 and see col. 15, line 43 for NCTC Medium 109 and 135). Other ingredients as recited in claims 80-84 are recited in the list of ingredients of each culture medium listed. The cells that are preferred to be cultured in this medium are human normal epithelial cells, particularly keratinocytes, disclosed at col. 5, lines 58-60. Claims 88-89 recite an intended use of the claimed culture medium. Under the principles of inherency, if a prior art composition, in its normal and usual operation, would necessarily perform the use claimed, then the use claimed will be considered to be anticipated by the prior art composition. When the prior art composition is the same as a composition described in the claims for carrying out the claimed use, it can be assumed the composition will inherently perform the claimed use. Further, recitations of intended use of an old composition will fail to impart patentability to an old composition.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 79 and 88-89 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent 5,712,163 to Parenteau et al.

The limitations of claim 79 recite a 10X concentrated medium formulation and the limitations of claims 88-89 recite that the cell to be cultured is an abnormal cell as defined as a transformed cell, an established cell or a cell derived from a diseased tissue sample.

A review of any tissue culture media catalog indicates that medium concentrations of 10X are conventional and well within the skill of the practitioner. It would therefore have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to formulate the culture media of Parenteau et al. as a 10X concentration with the expected benefits attendant thereto.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
